NOTES OF THE SOCIETY

"The Use of Microfilm in Genealogical Research" was the subject of an interesting talk and demonstration at the February meeting of the society. Mr. Eugene B. Power of Ann Arbor, president of University Microfilms, Inc., was the speaker. He traced the history of the use of microfilm back to the siege of Paris during the Franco-Prussian War, told of some of the adventures in copying rare records during the late war, and demonstrated the use of the projector. We learn that Mr. Power has developed a projector that can be used by invalids to project reading material onto the ceiling of a room. It has been tested at Percy Jones General Hospital and for some time its use will be confined to military hospitals. The Burton Historical Collection of the Detroit Public Library has microfilms of quite a number of books and records which are available to interested readers.

We are glad to report that Mr. Roy E. McFee, who broke a leg in a fall on the ice a few weeks ago, is able to get around on crutches. In the almost ten years of its existence, Mr. McFee, a charter member, has rarely missed a meeting of the society. He probably has the best attendance record of any of the members.

Mr. Edwin P. Hill, the first president of the society, now living in Indianapolis, Indiana, was a brief visitor in the Burton Historical Collection recently. We hope that the next time he is in Detroit he will be able to attend a meeting.

We regret to report the death on January 27 of this year of Mrs. Roy E. Hilton of Detroit, who had been ill for a long time. Mrs. Hilton was Carolyn M. Brown, the daughter of Jennie Elmira Beemer and Frank C. Brown. Her maternal grandparents were Samuel Coykendall Beemer, Jr. and Elmira Newman, daughter of William Newman and Hannah Westbrook. She was also a member of John Sackett Chapter D.A.R. (See "The History of the Kuykendall Family" by C. B. Kuykendall, 1919, and "Kuykendall Family Data" in this magazine for May-June, 1943, p. 92.)

Mr. R. P. Paterson, husband of our corresponding secretary, recently retired as freight traffic manager of the Pere Marquette Railway Co., after more than fifty-five years of service. Perhaps he may now develop an interest in genealogy as a hobby.

Twelve year old Edward Houghtby of Detroit, who is keenly interested in tracing his family history, was recently made a member of the society. Edward thus becomes our youngest member, eighty years separating him in age from our oldest member, Mr. O. D. Knabenshue of Detroit, who was ninety-two years old in January of this year.

Mrs. Maude Fuller of Detroit and Corunna, Michigan, is a maker of scrap books with a genealogical leaning. She is Past State President and present State Social Chairman of American War Mothers, the only group of war mothers with a Congressional Charter. Mrs. Fuller is making a record of Michigan war mothers of both the last wars, with something of their ancestry and their sons' service record. One book is on file in Burton now. A native of Shiawassee County, Michigan, which has not much recorded history, Mrs. Fuller clips and files everything she finds about the county and its people, adding notes from her own personal knowledge to the clippings. She has a file on Negro history and activities and one on very old people of Michigan. Some day she hopes to add all this to what she has already contributed to Burton.

Mrs. Jefferson Butler is a member of the Speaker's Bureau of the Detroit Community Fund which supplies speakers on request to clubs, churches, schools and other organizations. Mrs. Butler usually speaks on the history of Detroit and its people.

Mrs. Hoyt E. Whelan of Tecumseh, Michigan, has recently concluded a series of articles in the St. Johnsville (New York) News and Enterprise on the Wholan-Billington Family Tree. She is hoping to find the missing link in the Billington line.

An item that should have been recorded in these pages sometime ago is that of the establishment in the Detroit Public Library of the Mortimer Cooley Memorial Library. It was opened with 83 volumes on Navy Day last October as a part of the celebration of the centennial of the United States Naval Academy. Dean Cooley was a graduate of the Academy in 1878. The memorial was made possible by the Navy-Citizens' Committee of the Adercraft Club and the Detroit Council of the Navy League of the United States. Each volume in the memorial is an individual gift. Dean Cooley was, of course, the ardent genealogist for sixty years who compiled "The Cooley Genealogy".

Mrs. Helen Mead Burget is very happy these days because her three sons are all at home once more: Elwood from Guam, Carlisle from Germany and Mead from India.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. John Frederick Blount (Christine Sylvia Bourne) a son, John Bourne Blount, on February 11, 1946, in Droitwich Spa, Worcester, England. Since his discharge from the Army in January, John has been employed in a U. S. Army Ordnance Base at LaLouvier, Belgium. It is interesting to note that the baby's birthplace is not far from the English ancestral home of the Blounts (Blunt).

From the above item it will be seen that the Royal Oak (Michigan) Daily Tribune will have another hobby to add to its list in the issue of February 9, 1946, of the hobbies of George Frederick Blount, who recently completed twenty years as city electrician of Royal Oak. The article describes him as "perhaps the city's leading hobbyist". We have evidence of his interest in genealogy in his contributions to this magazine, especially his compilation of "The Fangbener (Fanebener) Genealogy".

Mrs. Frances Schureman Judd was welcomed back at the March meeting, the first time she has been able to attend in more than a year.

Mrs. James D. McGlynn is with us again after several years in Denver while her husband was in service. We are very glad to have her an active member again.

"Grave Humor", the subject of the paper read by Mrs. R. P. Paterson at the March meeting, furnished the theme for a very happy program. Mrs. Paterson, a collector of epitaphs, quoted from her collection to show the great variety of epitaphs of both old and modern times, both the serious and the humorous. Most of the members then added each a favorite epitaph or a comment on the subject. One of the pleasantest programs. Mr. W. C. Hudson, inspired by his interest in the society, wrote these verses:

TO OUR GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY

For research we meet, and o'er records we pore,
To learn what we can of our ancestral lore;
But it's not on mere dates our attention is bent,
Nor searching for names to claim royal descent;
For the colorful past has a meaningful tale
For only those seeking its truth to unveil.

We love this pursuit and we foregather here
To carry on work that to many seems queer.
While we honor the past, it's the future we face,
And our forefather's trials spur us on in the race.
So in friendship and zeal may we keep to the quest,
And to further our aims let us each do his best.

LIEUTENANT JAMES MARTINDELL (or DALE)
A PARTISAN SOLDIER OF THE REVOLUTION.
By William Clarence Hudson of Royal Oak, Michigan.

If we may judge by the many traditions handed down among his numerous descendants, Lieutenant James Martindell (or Dale) (1) must have been a picturesque individual. Born in a family of Quaker origin, he took part in some of the most bitter fighting in the Revolution; illiterate and lacking in early advantages, he became an officer in the militia and held local offices in civilian life; though hardly to be described as a uxorious man he was married three times and raised a large family. Some of the traditions regarding him were received at first hand by the writer from his own grandfather, who was a grandson of the soldier and was about fifteen years of age when the latter died. Available records substantially verify these traditions. Other traditions have been published in local county histories of counties in Ohio where his descendants lived, but some of these bear the marks of embellishment and are not always reliable as to details.

In his original pension application he stated that he was born in Bucks County, Pennsylvania in 1754. However, in later affidavits in 1833 both he and his brother William gave his age as 82 and that is also the age given in the pension reports of 1833 (2) Family traditions as to his extreme longevity add to the probability of the earlier date, so it is likely that he was born in 1751.

He was the son of William (3) and Martha Martindale who joined a Quaker emigration from Pennsylvania to South Carolina about 1762. John Martindell, father of William, and first of the family to come to America, was a Quaker who came from the North of England to Pennsylvania prior to 1700. (4) The family name was known in Lincolnshire and thereabout for nearly three hundred years and probably originated with some rural "Martin" who lived in a "dell" or secluded valley and was known as Martin of the Dell to distinguish him from others in the vicinity bearing the name Martin.

John married Mary Bridgman after coming to America, settled in Bucks County where he lived until his death in 1750. His son William went to Upper South Carolina and settled on the Enoree River in Union County where his five sons and three daughters grew up and married. This part of the state was comparatively inactive as a theater of war until after the fall of Charleston in the spring of 1780; partly because many of its inhabitants were Quakers and were peaceably inclined, and partly because of its remote location, far from the centers of population. However, when General Tarleton was sent to subdue Upper South Carolina it became the scene of some of the fiercest and most brutal fighting of the whole war.

It was at this time, early in 1780, that James Martindell joined one of the patriot bands. He had been married several years and had two or three small children. He enlisted as a private in Captain William Young's Company of Colonel Thomas Brandon's Regiment. Brandon was a brave and fiery leader who boasted that he could, and who on occasion did, cut his way through any British regiment. He usually acted in concert with, and as second in command to, Colonel James Williams. James Martindell took part in a number of forays against the Tories in his part of the state. A very good picture of the kind of warfare that prevailed in this region is given in Kennedy's once-popular historical novel "Horseshoe Robinson". There were no orderly campaigns here as there were in other parts of the colonies; nor was there much systematic organization. Instead there was a rapid assembling of troops at an appointed rendezvous, a quick and usually unexpected strike at the enemy, and then a quiet dispersal of the men to convenient hiding places.

The culmination of these small but effective attacks occurred at the decisive battle of King's Mountain where General James Ferguson's loyalist army was entirely destroyed. In this attack on Ferguson James Martindell was present fighting with Brandon's regiment under Williams, who was killed while leading an attack in one sector of the battle-field. He also took part in May and June 1781 in the Siege of Ninety-six, serving under Captain George Avery. It was perhaps about this time, and after he had been in service about a year and had taken part in several expeditions, that he was made first lieutenant. His promotion came about through the democratic process of election by the company, of which his brother William was also a member. (5) He claimed, however, that he afterward received a regular commission from General Pickens. Partisan warfare continued in South Carolina until the end of the war in 1783, and Martindell served more than two years as lieutenant, taking part as before in expeditions against the Tories.

In the meantime his family had not heard from him and supposed he had been killed, a most likely supposition under the conditions. Nor, according to a tradition among the descendants of Rebecca Pearson, his eldest grandchild, did they hear from him after the war. According to this tradition his wife (formerly a Miss Bishop), worn out from the hardships of war and pioneer life, died about the time of the close of the Revolution, leaving the nine-year-old Samuel as head of the family to look after his younger brother and sister. (6) After they grow up they went to the Miami Valley in Ohio, with their Martindale relatives and other South Carolina Quakers, remaining ignorant of the fate of their father.

Just how much of truth there is in this story it is now impossible to determine. It was not uncommon for homes to be destroyed and families to become separated in partisan warfare. It seems clear that Samuel Martindale spent his youth and middle age far from the scenes of his father's later activities. But the United States Census Reports of 1850 show Thomas, second son of James, living in Miami County, Indiana, 65 years of age and born in North Carolina. (7) If this data is correct it indicates that James and his first wife were living in North Carolina about 1785. The records of Union County, South Carolina, show that the home of William Martindale, father of James, was destroyed by fire, together with all the family records and papers, in May 1785 and give the name of James as a witness to this event. (8) In his pension application James stated that he remained in South Carolina for two years after the war, so it is possible that James and his family were living with his father after the war and that, when the home burned, they went to North Carolina and that the wife soon after died there.

While we cannot follow the activities of James Martindell after the war with exactness, we know that he was serving in the militia in Bedford County, Virginia in 1788. (9) Prior to that time, probably in 1787, he was re-married. His second wife was Margaret Alexander, who, according to tradition, had come to America from Ireland (presumably with her parents) about 1775. Their first son, John, was born in North Carolina. They appear to have lived in Bedford County for several years and then in Greenbrier County where their younger children were born. Finally, in 1809, they moved to Gallia County, Ohio, and settled in Addison Township. Their home is said to have been on Champaigne Creek near the present village of Addison on Route 7. At the time they moved there, the county was new, undeveloped and sparsely settled. Soon after their arrival, James and Margaret Martindell joined a few other families in a meeting at the home of William Cherrington, which organized the first Methodist Church in the Township. (10)

James Martindell is said to have been an active and influential citizen in his new community, and to have actively participated in the war effort in the War of 1812. It is not likely, however, that he did any actual military service in that war. He is also said to have served for a time as Justice of the Peace. He assisted his daughter Tabby who was left a widow with a number of children, and who appears to have made her home with her parents until after her mother's death. During this period he lost his son John who had served in the War of 1812 and died a few years later, leaving a widow with a family of small children.

Margaret, the second wife of James Martindell, died sometime after 1830. She was esteemed and highly respected by her immediate descendants, who long remembered her as a woman of strong character and forceful personality. After being left alone a second time, James seems to have spent several restless years which eventually culminated in a third marriage.

When the Pension Act of 1832 was passed by Congress he filed his application with the Court of Common Pleas of Gallia County to take advantage of its provisions. In order to furnish proper proof of his service, he found it necessary, the following year, to visit his brother William in Warren County, Ohio. This was probably after the death of his second wife and he seems to have made a somewhat lengthy visit among his relatives. It was perhaps on this journey that the surprising reunion with his oldest son Samuel took place. According to the tradition among Rebecca Pearson's descendants, to which reference has previously been made in this article, for upwards of fifty years Samuel had supposed that this father was killed in service in the Revolutionary War. He himself, after coming to Ohio and raising his family there, had become a widower and was living with his daughter, Rebecca. According to the story, his youngest daughter observed a stranger, an old man, coming toward the house. Seeing a strong family resemblance, and knowing the family story, she instantly surmised the truth and exclaimed, "Daddy, your father is coming". Though the tradition may be somewhat exaggerated, the father and son had undoubtedly been separated a long, long time. The meeting seems to have been a pleasant one; - the father recounted his experiences after the war and told of his second family and his five sons living in Gallia County. It was only recently, he told them, that he had heard of Martindales living near Troy, Ohio, and had resolved to look them up. He apparently enjoyed his reception and prolonged his stay for some time, and perhaps made other visits to them later. The old soldier was still vigorous and it is related that on one occasion, he, his son, grandson and great-grandson all cradled wheat together in the same field. (11)

James Martindell was granted a pension of $320 per year for his Revolutionary services, a liberal amount at that time, and was in position to live comfortably. However, his cares accumulated during the last years of his life. Two more of his sons died within a few years of the death of their mother. He then made his home with his youngest son, James Alexander Martindale. (12) Not long after this he is said to have made another journey back to his old haunts in North Carolina, and it was possibly while there that he met and arranged his third marriage with Mary Gilmour. There was opposition to this marriage by his Gallia County children, who believed it was entered into with ulterior motives - to benefit by his pension. However, the marriage was consummated after his return to Gallia County, January 31, 1839. (13)

The rugged old soldier did not long survive his third marriage. He made his will June 21, 1840, naming the three surviving sons and two eldest daughters of his second marriage. He did not mention his daughter Mary (who may have pre-deceased him) nor the children of his first marriage. (14) He died July 7, 1840.

After his death a pension was applied for on behalf of his widow and evidence was submitted as to her good character and need. The question of her eligibility raised a controversy which dragged on for years. There were accusations of fraud against persons said to be using the unfortunate old lady as a tool to further their own interests. General Lewis Newsom, a prominent citizen of Gallipolis, Ohio, who had known the Martindell family since they lived in Bedford County, Virginia, wrote a letter of protest to the Pension Commissioner. The widow died, the pension was disallowed, (15) but the controversy was long remembered by the Gallia County descendants.

Twelve children of James Martindell are known to have reached maturity: (16)

By ----- (Bishop) Martindell

1. Samuel Martindale b. about 1775.
2. Martha (Mattie or Mollie) Pearson b. Feb. 5, 1780.
3. Thomas Martindale b. about 1785.

By Margaret (Alexander) Martindell

4. John Martindale b. about 1788.
5. Drusilla (or Josie) Jones b. about 1790.
6. Tabitha Rife b. about 1792.
7. Joseph Martindill m. 1817
8. Mary (or Polly) Fulton m. 1818
9. David Martindale b. 1798.

- 10. Moses Martindill b. 1802
- 11. Andrew S. Martindale b. about 1805.
- 12. James Alexander Martindale b. about 1807.

- (1) "Martindell" is the spelling used in the signature to his will, his only known authentic signature. It is also the spelling used by the first American ancestor. "Martindill" is the spelling, as corrected, on the first page of his pension application and is the one used by the descendants of his sons Moses and Joseph. "Martindale", however, is the spelling most frequently used in the records and by most of his descendants.

In the latest issue, Vol. LXVII, 1945, of the "Proceedings of the Massachusetts Historical Society", among a number of interesting papers read before the Society is one by Henry Wilder Foote on "FALSE FACES - A Study of the Use and Abuse of Portraits as Historical Documents". He quotes from a letter of Thomas Carlyle: "First of all, then, I have to tell you, as a fact of personal experience, that in all my poor Historical investigations it has been, and always is, one of the most primary wants to procure a bodily likeness of the personage inquired after; a good Portrait if such exists, failing that, even an indifferent if sincere one. In short, any representation, made by a faithful human creature of the Face and Figure, which he saw with his eyes, and which I can never see with mine, is now valuable to me, and much better than none at all. Often I have found a Portrait superior in real instruction to half-a-dozen "Biographies", as Biographies are written. It is not the untrue imaginary picture of a man and his work that I want, but the actual natural likeness, true as the face itself; nay truer in a sense, which the artist, if there is one, might help to give and the bother never can."

Mr. Foote's interesting discussion concludes "That any portrait, in any medium, is a historical document, and its authenticity and veracity are to be tested and weighed by the same standards that are applicable to any other sources of historical information."

What proof is there that that old daguerreotype in the family possession is without doubt the photograph of great-grandfather, the Revolutionary ancestor?

Mr. L. A. Merrill contributes the following interesting item from a recent issue of The Detroit News: "OLD FAMILY TREE - Men boast of coming from old established families dating back several hundred years, but insect families still in existence date back some 300,000,000 years."

THE DUBBS FAMILIES
Compiled by Minnie Dubbs Millbrook of Detroit

IV. Hans Jost Dubs, The Fourth Immigrant.

HANS JOST DUBS came to America on the ship, Princess Augusta, landing at Philadelphia, September 16, 1736. He was eighteen years old at the time. Although he arrived on the same ship with Hans Jacob Dups, the fifth immigrant, there is no evidence to prove that they were related in any way. Only a few indications have been found of the life of Hans Jost Dubs in America. On October 21, 1741 a warrant for 50 acres of land in Cocalico Township, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, was issued to Yoost Tops. On October 25, 1741 this land was surveyed to Anthony Miller in the right of Tops. Probably the land was sold before it was surveyed. On June 7, 1748 Jost Dubs sold Peter Tostee 125 acres of land in Frederick County, Maryland. In February, 1749 Adam Andres of Philadelphia sued Jost Dubs, trader of Augusta County, Virginia for a bond made March 9, 1746. Probably a direct study of Virginia records would reveal more information about this man.

V. Hans Jacob Dups, The Fifth Immigrant.

HANS JACOB DUPS was born about 1711, presumably in the parish of Affoltern at Mt. Albis, Canton of Zurich, Switzerland, since it was from that parish he emigrated in 1736. According to a report made to the Swiss government by the pastor of the parish on emigrants to the American Colonies, Hans Jacob Dups was a helpmate (probably he was a journey-man in some trade) and was employed by Heiri. Another young man of the same parish, Rudolph Haug, went along to America.

It is probable that Hans Jacob Dups had friends or relatives in Pennsylvania as he went directly to the frontier in East Hanover Township, Lancaster (now Lebanon) County, and in less than a year, June 6, 1737, had obtained a warrant from Thomas Penn for 150 acres of land. The Penns at that time sold land at the rate of £15, 10s per 100 acres. The farm, when surveyed many years later, showed 249 acres. It lay on a branch of the Swatara near Harper's Tavern, with Rudolph Haug on an adjoining farm.

In 1743 the two young men made a trip to Switzerland and brought back with them to America a party of twenty-one persons, among them a brother and two sisters of Hans Jacob Dups. Of these, the brother Hans Dups settled in the same township, and one sister, Verena, and her husband Casper Schnabel, in the same county.

Shortly after his return to Pennsylvania Hans Jacob, or Jacob as he was commonly known, married Rebecca Weirick. The family seems to have worshiped at the old Swatara Church in Bethel Township, although none of the baptisms of the children were recorded in that church book. Such as have been found were from the pastoral records of itinerant pastors who preached at the Swatara Church.

In 1761 Jacob Dups became supervisor of roads in East Hanover Township. In that same year he died, perhaps unexpectedly, as he left no will or instructions for the care of his eight minor children. The wife, Rebecca, died between 1766 and 1771.

The children of Jacob and Rebecca Dups:-

1. JOHN JACOB, b. about 1745; d. Apr. 1775.
2. JOHN, b. about 1748.
3. ANNA MARIA, b. about 1750.
4. DANIEL, b. about 1752.

V. Hans Jacob Dups, The Fifth Immigrant, Second Generation.

JACOB (2) DUPS, son of Hans Jacob, born about 1745, over the age of fourteen in 1762, chose for his guardian, Adam Harper, a neighboring farmer and tavern keeper. In 1766, having attained his majority, he petitioned the court to allow him to take over the family plantation. An inquest of some of the neighbors decided that the plantation could not well be divided and, appraising the land at L230, recommended that the oldest son be allowed to take over the farm, paying the other heirs their shares. According to the tax list of 1769, only forty acres of the farm was cleared land.

Jacob Dups married Susanna Capp and both of his children were baptized at the Swatara Church. Dying in 1775, he appointed his brother-in-law, George Capp, as administrator and ordered that his farm be sold and the money be held for the children until they were of age. The homestead was probably sold in 1777 as the name disappears from the tax list in that year. It is believed that Susanna Dups married again as her name appears in her mother's will as Susanna Gundrum (1784).

The children of Jacob and Susanna Dups:-

1. Christina, b. Nov. 22, 1771.
2. JOHN JACOB, b. July 28, 1774; d. Nov. 25, 1852.

JOHN (2) DUPS, son of Hans Jacob, fourteen in 1762, chose as his guardian, Henry Waggoner, a blacksmith of Bethel Township, Lancaster (now Lebanon) County, Pennsylvania. He was, therefore, probably a blacksmith, though this is not definitely known. The only tradition that has come down concerning this generation was that the sons were bound out to learn a trade. This was the custom of the times and was not confined to orphans. It may be presumed that the estate left by the father was sufficient to provide for the sons until they reached the age of fourteen, when they became bound to some craftsman to learn a trade.

Since John Dups, son of Hans Dups, was almost exactly the same age as John Dups, son of Hans Jacob, and the families lived in the same township, it is almost impossible to distinguish between them among the records of their time. In 1776 John Dups was a drummer in the company of Capt. Thomas Koppenheffer. To the particular muster roll on which the name appears is appended a note that John Dubbs and several others had deserted - the whole group of them "living in Hanover Township near Adam Harper's." This must have been a temporary AWOL as John Dubbs the drummer appears on the militia rolls almost every year of the early part of the war.

There is also a baptismal record of a son born to John and Christine Dubbs in 1778. This record may refer to this John Dubbs, since it is not ascribable to any other John Dubbs of that time. It is believed that this man may have died or removed from Lancaster (now Lebanon) County about 1779, because there is no further evidence of his residence in the old records of the area. There is a tax record in the name of John Dubbs in 1779 in York County, and in 1784 there was a John Toops in Hampshire County, Virginia. They may possibly refer to this man.

ANNA MARIA (2) DUPS, daughter of Hans Jacob, was under fourteen in 1762. She was probably born about 1750, as in 1771 she seems to have reached her majority. At that time her uncle, John Dups, who had been appointed her guardian in 1762, paid over to her, her inheritance from her grandfather, George Weirick. The receipt she gave to her uncle at that time remains among the old papers of Henry Hautz, the administrator of Hans Dups, and, preserved by Hautz descendants, it remains the sole witness to the fact that Rebecca, wife of Jacob Dups and mother of Anna Maria, was a Weirick and that she died before 1771.

DANIEL (2) DUPS, son of Hans Jacob, was also placed under the guardianship of his uncle, Hans Dups, in 1762. He seems to have been born about 1752, as his name appears on the tax roll of 1773 as a free man. No further trace of him has been found.

HENRY (2) DUPS, son of Hans Jacob, was born December 11, 1754. The sponsors at his baptism were John Weber and Maria Elizabeth Weyrich. He became a saddler and is so listed on some militia rolls of Bethel Township, Lancaster (now Lebanon) County, Pennsylvania. He seems to have lived at Jonestown for a period and then to have moved elsewhere after 1782. In 1786 Henry Toops, saddler, is on the tax-roll in Lettorkenny Township, Franklin County, Pennsylvania, probably at Strasburg. In 1790 he disappears from this tax roll, and, as there is no evidence of his death, we conclude that he moved elsewhere.

A birth record of a son born to Henry and Catherine Dubbs in 1776 may refer to this man. Also a marriage record: Henry Dupps (widower) to Elizabeth Schnable, on February 12, 1782. In 1790 in Franklin County, Pennsylvania, his family consisted of one son under sixteen years and five women.

JULIANA (2) DUPS, daughter of Hans Jacob, placed under the guardianship of Urban Long in 1762, evidently remained with her mother, as the Orphan's Court allowed her mother three pounds a year for her keep. Girls were not so expensive to keep as boys in those days, as the court allowed four pounds for Leonard, the next youngest child, and two pounds for the baby, Frederick. Nothing further is known of this child, although she is believed to have grown up. Frederick named his first daughter for her, and, therefore, must have remembered her affectionately.

LEONARD (2) DUPS, son of Hans Jacob, was born July 22, 1759, and baptized on October 6, 1760 at the Swatara Church by the Rev. John Waldenschmidt. In this record the name is misspelled, or misprinted, Dutz. However, there was no family by that name in the area, and it is believed to refer to the Dups family. The birth date does not coincide with the legend on the tombstone of Leonard Dubbs in the Harrisburg Lutheran Cemetery, which states that he died in 1840 at the age of 88 years. It does, however, agree with the date given in his application for a pension in 1818, and is also in sequence after that of the next older brother - a sequence that appears in both the Orphan's Court record and in a deed relating to the family homestead. It also agrees with various stories of his Revolutionary War service, which present him as a boy in his teens at the time of his enlistment in 1777.

Nothing is known of the youth of Leonard Dups. Presumably he learned a trade. He enlisted in the Eleventh Pennsylvania Regiment, May 1, 1777 at Lebanon, and continued in various regiments of the Pennsylvania Line until August 13, 1783. He was a drummer in the army under General Anthony Wayne, and one of the stories of his service that survives concerns the home-made drum that he carried. The drum having been lost in the surprise engagement at Paoli, General Wayne ordered a special troop out to retrieve it. According to his pension application, Leonard Dups was at Brandywine, Paoli and Germantown in 1777, Monmouth in 1778, Springfield in 1779 and at "the taking of Lord Cornwallis and his army at Yorktown in Virginia in 1781."

His drum, carried later in the War of 1812 by his son Jacob and in the Mexican War of 1845 by his grandson, Chambers Dubbs, is still preserved. It was beaten at Liberty Loan Drives in Philadelphia in World War I and exhibited at the World's Fair in New York in 1938 by the State of Pennsylvania. According to Carl Van Doren in his "Mutiny in January", Leonard Dubbs was one of two men of the rank and file of the Revolutionary armies to leave information concerning the mutiny of the Pennsylvania troops in 1780.

In September, 1788, at Millerstown, Dauphin (now Lebanon) County, Leonard Dubbs married Margaret Van Gundy, daughter of Joseph Van Gundy. Their marriage seems not to have been a happy one. Perhaps six years of war under the miserable hardships of the Revolution were not the best foundation for a successful civilian life. For some years Leonard Dubbs was a gunsmith in Harrisburg. In 1818 when he filed his petition for a pension, he was living in Huntington County, Pennsylvania. He stated that his discharge from the army was in Harrisburg and "kept from the deponent by his wife who lives in the town and will not deliver same to him". He was granted a pension of $5 a month at that time. In 1835 he became blind and returned to his family in Harrisburg where he died February 23, 1840.

His wife Margaret survived him for twelve years, dying March 11, 1853. She stated in her will that since she had collected what property she had by her own industry she would dispose of it as she saw fit. The estate was left to her daughters, with the provision that Catherine must look after Magdalena, who had an "infirmity" and could not care for herself.

ADDENDA TO THE DAINS FAMILY RECORD
Contributed by Sabria Palmer Lamb of Detroit, Michigan

Note:- The following addition to the record of "SOME DESCENDANTS OF ABRAHAM DAINS AND SARAH PEAKE" (see issues of March-April 1945 through November-December 1945) was compiled by Frank Burnett Dains of Lawrence, Kansas. It completes one line of descendants of Oxenbridge (3) Dains and adds some data to the earlier generations. Wherever the record duplicates that already published in this magazine it has been omitted here.

First Generation

The widow of Abraham Dains, Sarah Peake Dains, married Micah Rood in 1691, and had three children: Mary, Micah and Joseph Rood.

Second Generation

JOANNA (JOHANNA) DAINS (2), daughter of Abraham (1), was born February 2, 1671/2 in New London, Connecticut; died ---; married David Palnette, April 30, 1696. (Vital Records, Stonington.)

JOHN DAINS (2), son of Abraham (1), born in New London about 1674, went to Southold, Long Island before 1698, where he married Abigail Pain, daughter of Peter Pain. Children of John Dains and Abigail Pain (Dains):

1. Peter b. 1700
2. Abraham b. 1702 (See The Pain Genealogy.)

THOMAS DAYNES (2), son of Abraham (1), was born in New London about 1676; died in Coventry, October 1, 1739 aged 63 years; married Hannah ---.

Children of Thomas Daynes and Hannah --- (Daynes):

1. Hannah b. 1706
2. Joseph b. 1711
3. Tabitha b. 1720
4. Benjamin b. ---; d. April 11, 1728.
5. Thomas b. ---; d. May 25, 1725.
6. Ebenezer b. ---; d. July 26, 1726.

Will of Thomas (2) Daynes probated 1739/40.

EBENEZER DAYNES (2), son of Abraham (1), was born October 27, 1680 in Norwich; died May 22, 1753 in Canterbury; married Mercy (William 2, 1) Ludington, March 17, 1706 or 1707 in Norwich.

Children of Ebenezer Daynes and Mercy Ludington (Daynes):

1. BENJAH b. Sept. 7, 1708, Norwich.
2. ELENOR b. Feb. 4, 1709/10.
3. EBENEZER b. April 9, 1712.
4. ABIGAIL b. March 27, 1715; m. her cousin, Oxenbridge Dains; d. Sept. 30, 1772
5. Elizabeth b. Aug. 20, 1717, Norwich.
6. ZERVIAH b. March 31, 1721
7. HANNAH b. Aug. 9, 1722; d. Feb. 18, 1746/7 in Windham; admitted to the church in Scotland, Windham Co., July 23, 1741 (?).
8. JOHN b. June 21, 1724.

EPHRAIM DAYNES (2), son of Abraham (1); little has been added to his record found in p. 96 of the March-April, 1945, issue.

1. Sarah b. Sept. 3 or 8, 1709; admitted to church 1718; living in 1757.
3. OXENBRIDGE m. his cousin Abigail Dains (see EBENEZER, above.)
6. Joseph not mentioned in father's will probated 1757; prob. died before
7. Lydia probably living in Norwich in 1758.
8. Flavens (Flavel), b. June 30, 1731; bapt. July 4, 1731.

Third Generation

BENEJAH DAINS (3), son of Ebenezer (2), was born in Norwich, Connecticut, September 7, 1708; died in Windham in 1784. Benejah Dains of Scotland, Windham County, married first Mary Munroe, daughter of David and Debora Munroe of Canterbury, March 23, 1733. She died on April 5, 1776 and Benejah married, second, widow Hannah Brown of Coventry, June 26, 1776. The will of Benejah, dated November 8, 1781, mentions wife Hannah and daughters Ruth and Mary Dains, Abigail French and grandson Aaron French.

Children of Benejah Dains and Mary Munroe (Dains):

- | | |
|------------|--|
| 1. SOLOMON | b. Aug. 15, 1733. |

3. Henry Spaulding Dains b. November 8, 1805; married Hannah Safford, 1825, in Vermont. He moved to Indiana, where he died in Lake Valley in 1888. He was a Methodist minister.
4. Charles Chandler Dains b. Feb. 20, 1807.
5. Stephen Lyons Dains b. Sept. 30, 1812.
6. David Cleveland Dains b. Feb. 8, 1816.
7. Martha Wight Dains b. Nov. 6, 1818.)
8. Marshall Estabrook Dains b. " " ") Twins.

Sixth Generation

GEORGE MILLER DAINS (6), son of Nathan (5), was born January 5, 1803 in Vermont or in Brooklyn, Connecticut; died April 20, 1895 in Winchester, Massachusetts. He married (1) September 24, 1823 at Pittsfield, Vermont, Cynthia Martin Daly, daughter of David Daly (see Zerviah Norwood 4), who was born July 9, 1799 in Pittsfield, and died there, February 27, 1852. George Miller Dains married (2), July 5, 1852, Laura A. Clark who survived him.

Child of George Miller Dains and Cynthia Martin Daly (Dains):

1. GEORGE GAMALIEL DAINS, b. May 1, 1823.

Seventh Generation

GEORGE GAMALIEL DAINS (7), son of George Miller (6), was born May 1, 1823 in Randolph, Vermont; died August 3, 1884 in Hamilton, New York. A. B. and A.M. Wesleyan University, Middletown, Connecticut. From 1859 to 1884 he was a teacher and Methodist minister in New York State. He married (1) July 19, 1859, Mary Ann Fox of Weathersfield, Vermont; who died May 18, 1866. He married (2) November 25, 1866, Celestia Stone Burnett, born August 20, 1841 at DeKalb, New York, died February 23, 1889.

Children of George Gamaliel Dains and Mary Ann Fox (Dains):

1. George Herrick Dains b. 1861; d. 1904.
2. May Fay Dains b. 1862; d. 1879.
3. Anna Cynthia Dains b. 1864; d. 1866.

Child of George Gamaliel Dains and Celestia Stone Burnett (Dains):

4. FRANK BURNETT DAINS b. Jan. 15, 1869.

Eighth Generation

FRANK BURNETT DAINS (8), son of George Gamaliel (7), was born January 15, 1869 in Gouverneur, New York; married September 24, 1893, Alice Haight. Ph.B. Wesleyan University, Connecticut, 1890; M.S. University of Chicago, 1891; Ph.D. Freiburg and Berlin, Germany, 1901-2; Professor of Chemistry at University of Kansas since 1911; Emeritus Professor since 1942; original investigator in chemistry and writer on chemical subjects in American and foreign journals. ADDITIONS TO PUBLISHED GENEALOGICAL WORKS.

English Home of the WILBORES Found! All descendants of the Wilbur family will be interested in important additions to the lineage of that family recently made by Mr. Benjamin F. Wilbour of Little Compton, Rhode Island, co-author with Mr. John Reid Wilbor of "THE WILDBORES IN AMERICA", as announced in the New England Historical and Genealogical Register for April 1945, page 175.

For many years Mr. Wilbour has searched in this country and in England to find the English home of Samuel (1) Wilbore, and the name of his wife, who was not, as stated by Savage, a daughter of Thomas Bradford of Doncaster, York, England.

Samuel (1) Wilbore came from Sible-Heddingham, Essex County, England, and was a son of Nicholas and Elizabeth Wilbore. Boyd's Marriage Index of fifteen counties in England gives the marriage of Samuel (1) Wilbore and Ann Smith of Sible-Heddingham, Essex County, in 1620. Parish records there give the baptisms of their children, as follows: Samuel baptized 1622, Joseph 1629/30 and Shadrack 1631; also two sons who died young.

It is hoped that farther research will carry this line still farther, and also establish the parentage of William (2) who seems to have been a nephew rather than a son of Samuel (1). Note from Elsie E. Perkins of Detroit.

Paul and Parks "HISTORY OF WELLS, VERMONT", page 144, says:-

"Reynolds, Joshua, married a Miss Darling; he built the house that Thomas M. Clemons resides in; he had three children, Newall, Mary and Palmer."

There is no evidence of Joshua Reynolds' marriage to a "Miss Darling". On the contrary, it appears that his marriage to Mary Newhall in 1768 was his only marriage. (New Salem, Mass., Vital Records to 1850.) Joshua Reynolds and his wife, Mary, are mentioned in an indenture dated September 30, 1819. (Records of the Town Clerk, Wells, Vermont.)

Joshua Reynolds, formerly of Shutesbury, Mass., died in 1820; his will was probated at Castleton, Vt., in the Probate District of Fairhaven, Vt., on July 13, 1820. (Probate Court Records, Fairhaven, Vt., Vol. 11, p. 160.) In this will, besides his wife, Mary, Joshua Reynolds names his children: Newall (his wife's surname), Mary, Palmer, Joshua and Delilah, and a grand-daughter, Hope Mane. According to the family records of the late Ward Reynolds of Medina, N. Y., Joshua (Jr.) was born in Wells, Vermont, in 1783. Joshua Reynolds (Sr.) was interred in a burial plot on his farm in Wells where his wife, Mary, was buried a few years later. (Records of the Town Clerk, Wells, Vt., Book I, page 555, a deed dated Oct. 9, 1826, in which Palmer Reynolds conveys the farm with the exception of a burying ground "in which my honored parents are buried".) These graves, although they are now unmarked, were located in June, 1944,

"THE GENEALOGY OF THE EVELAND AND CLEVELAND FAMILIES" by Edmund Janos Cleveland and Horace Gillette Cleveland, 1899, Vol. II, p. 1329, says: "William Henry Sutherland b. Aug. 10, 1840; m. (1) Kalamazoo, Mich., Sept. 21, 1864, Emily Celia Fisher, b. Stark Co., Ohio, Mar. 25 (23?), 1841; d. Kalamazoo, Mar. 12, 1875, dau. of Reuben and Lavinia (Knox) Fisher."

The name should be Lovina Knox. It is given LOVINA on her 2nd marriage record in Kalamazoo County Clerk's Office. Lovina (Knox) Fisher m. (2) Dec. 30, 1852, aged 52, in Kalamazoo, William Shakespeare, aged 61 years.

It is given LOVINA on her tombstone in Mountain Home Cemetery in Kalamazoo. Lovina Knox, wife of William Shakespeare, b. 1800; d. July 16, 1858, aged 57 yrs. Buried on Sutherland lot as is her dau. Emily Celia Fisher (above).

"THE COMPENDIUM OF HISTORY AND BIOGRAPHY OF KALAMAZOO COUNTY, MICHIGAN" by A. W. Brower and Co., Chicago, p. 414, says: "Lovina Knox, daughter of John Knox, of Crawford Co., Pa., married Reuben Fisher and after their marriage went to Stark Co., Ohio, later to Macomb Co., Mich., in 1840. Reuben died there in 1851."

Their dau. Margaret M. Fisher, b. Aug. 2, 1820, Crawford Co., Pa., d. May 2, 1889, Glenn, Allegan Co., Mich.; m. Dec. 14, 1837, Stark Co., Ohio, Charles D. Hamlin. They had a dau. MELISSA LOVINA, named for her grandmother, Lovina Knox (above).

"THE DESCENDANTS OF BERNARD CAPEN OF DORCHESTER, MASSACHUSETTS" by Rev. "THE HAUTZ FAMILY OF PENNSYLVANIA" in "The Detroit Society for Genealogical Research Magazine", issue of January-February, 1946 - add to the children of Philip Lorentz and Eva (Walborn) Hautz another son-8. John Hautz (1762-1829), youngest son. There is evidence that this John Hautz may have been married three times; first, to Catherine Winter, dau. of Frederick; second, to Catherine Dierwochter; and last, to Catherine (Dubbs) Snavely, widow of Henry.

The will of 7. Wendel Hautz (1760-1843) was recently located in the Lebanon Co., Pa. Courthouse. It names children: Catherine (1786-), wife of Thos. Bender; Christian; Mary; Wendle; Jr.; John; Henry; Elizabeth; Christina; Barbara; and another dau. who was Mrs. Michael Schwartz.

On p. 78 the dates for John H. Hautz should be 1804 to 1869.

I wish to thank Rev. Harry Houtz of Harrisburg, Pa. and Mrs. Raymond Millbrook of Detroit for help in procuring church and court records.

1020: H-27: WELLS:- Desire ancestry of Joseph Wells, b. about 1768; m. Prudence Grannis, b. Weathersfield, Vt., 1775, dau. of Edward Grannis and his wife, Hannah Wells(dau. of Joseph Wells of Hebron, Conn. and Cambridge, N.Y.) In 1802, Joseph and Prudence were living in Buffalo. Tradition says that Joseph Wells came from Partridgefield, 15 miles from Providence, R. I. There is no Partridgefield now. He and his brother, Marmaduke Wells, saw service in the War of 1812 in New York. The latter came to Michigan and from 1818 until his death in 1826 he lived at Sand Hill near New Boston in Wayne Co. A genealogy of this family claims them as descendants of Governor Wells, but gives no proof and is not believed to be correct. Other brothers and sisters of Joseph Wells are believed to be: Mary, b. 1782, who m. Major Noble (a name, not a title); Esack, m. Charity--, and lived in Genesee, N.Y.; William, m. Rachel--, and lived in Michigan. Any information will be welcomed.

1021:H-12: KEELER-CANFIELD:- Did Jemima Keeler, dau. of John (2) and Hittable (Rockwell) Keeler, b. in Norwalk, Conn., marry Ezekiel Canfield? If not, whom?

1004: Y-1: STORM-SNEDEKER: (The following two answers to this query do not agree. We do not know which is correct. Do you? Editor.)

Abraham Storm was the son of John, b. in Philipsburg, N. Y. (bapt. Apr. 23, 1737); m. Sept. 21, 1758, Barbara Dey; resided in Haverstraw, N. Y.
 John Storm was the son of Staas Storm, b. in Yonkers about 1697; m. Nov. 27, 1720, Susanna Devoe, dau. of Abraham Devoe; resided in Philipsburg, N. Y.
 Staas Storm was the son of Hendrick, b. in New Amsterdam about 1668; m. Neesje de Groot, dau. of Staats Jenson; resided in Yonkers; d. before 1703.
 Hendrick Storm was the son of Dirck Storm, b. in Holland about 1630; m. Maria Monfort, dau. of Pieter. In 1661 they were living in Oseh, in the Mairy of the Besch. They came to New Amsterdam in 1662 on the ship "Fox" which arrived on Aug. 31. They resided for several years in New Amsterdam. On Feb. 14, 1668 he was granted a license to keep a public house on the corner of Pearl and Whitehall streets. The next year they removed to Brooklyn and on Dec. 15th he succeeded Carl Beauvais as town clerk of Brooklyn. In 1667 they removed to Flatbush where he became the village schoolmaster, and from 1680 to 1683 he was town clerk of Flatbush. Later they resided in Bedford, Kings County. In 1691 he was appointed clerk of the newly created Orango County, and the same year settled with his family in "Col. Certlandt's Patent" where he was still living in June 1694, when he was appointed Justice of the Peace for Westchester County. In 1696 he was collector for the upper part of Westchester County. Later he settled in Tappan where he was "voorselaer" of the church until his removal to Philipsburg. The early records of the Philipsburg Church to 1716 are in his handwriting. He is believed to have died the latter part of that year. (Reference: Manuscript genealogy of the Storm Family by Grenville C. MacKenzie.)

Answer by Mrs. Frank W. Seth of White Plains, N. Y.

Ancestry of Abraham Storm, the Pensioner, born 1759, died 1838, married 12/28/1779, Aoltje, dau. of Johannes Snedeker of Clarkstown. (Mss. of Mrs. F. G. Kolsey, Camden, N.Y.)

She died in 1803. No children.

ABRAHAM (V) Storm, b. "Phillipso Manor", June 1759, d. June 27, 1838, Clarkstown N. Y. He was allowed a pension upon his application executed Nov. 30, 1832, then a resident of Clarkstown. Abraham Storm m. Dec. 28, 1779, Aeltje Snedeker (Snidiker). The widow Aeltje Storms was allowed a pension on her application made Nov. 20, 1838. She gave her birth date as March 2, 1759. (Pension Claim W-19402. B. A. J. Archives of Pension Bureau, Washington, D. C.)

Abraham Storms, while residing with his father in New York, enlisted in June 1776 in Capt. Jeromiah Wool's Co., Col. Malcolm's Regt; was on Long Island at the time of the engagement and retreat, and returned to his father's house, who had moved to New York City. He enlisted again in 1777, and was taken prisoner and exchanged in 1778. He enlisted again and served to the close of the war in Capt. Smith's Co., Col. A. Hays' and Gilbert Cooper's Regt. He was allowed a pension Nov. 30, 1832, then a resident of Clarkstown, where he d. June 27, 1838. (Records of New York Men in the Revolutionary War by Roberts.)

His will was drawn March 21, 1833 and probated Aug. 5, 1838. He bequeathed to his wife Aeltje, and children, Abraham, John, Garrett, Polly wife of William Perry, and Elizabeth wife of Henry Stevens. (Orange County Wills and Estates, Vol. VII, p. 20) His children were: Abraham, Jr., b. 4/6/1781; John, b. 8/8/1783, d. young; Marytje (Polly), b. 5/11/1788, m. Wm. Perry; John 2, b. 6/5/1791; Elizabeth, b. 6/25/1798, m. Henry Stevens; Garrett S., b. 3/6/1803. In the widow's application for a pension she states the witnesses present at her wedding and names her husband's sister POLLY (Marytje) as one of them. She was the only sister as Abraham and Marytje (Banker) Storm had but two children.
